

OPD

Speak In Haiku

The residents of Oakland use a certain block of Woods Street as an unofficial refuse transfer station; and just take their dump loads there, and once every few weeks or so the city sends out a big dump truck and loader to clean it up.

I was looking over the pile one day hoping to find a spare for my van, holding air and mounted on a Ford, Chevy, or Dodge 5-lug pickup or van wheel. A couple of OPD rolled up and got out. One asked me what I was doing. I told him what I was doing. He then said plainly:

Your life is in danger here
I know you think it is not
But it is
